I'm a 21 year old legally blind author and model who loves to create. My vision has been one of my biggest challenges but has never stopped me from working towards my dreams. I write stories for children with disabilities and hope someday they can be on the shelf in stores! A major goal of mine is to be in a commercial and walk New York fashion week. I would love to bring more representation to the visually impaired community!

Dance is my passion....I dance at the studio, I dance in the living room, I dance walking down the sidewalk! I would love some day to do something professionally with my dance training, but for right now I just want to enjoy learning, growing and dancing with my friends.

I started dancing at Expressive Movement Dance a few years in a recreational class and loved it! Then I tried out for their competition teams and made it! I compete with my team in jazz, ballet, hip hop, lyrical and tap. We have so much fun dancing together. I also do solos, duets and trios at competitions. Jazz and contemporary are definitely my favorite. I have done solos in each at competition and have danced well enough to place each time. One of my jazz solos was an almost perfect score! I also won 2nd place at Nationals last year for my contemporary solo.

I try to push myself everyday to get better at something - whether it is in the studio with my instructors or at home just playing around with new tricks. I have to work the hardest at ballet, but I know it is the foundation for everything so I try my best each day. My next solo is a ballet solo, so wish me luck!!

I can't wait to continue my dance training and hope to see y'all at the next competition or convention :)
