Amy Taylor is a super model from Californian who has been in big covers all around the world. We've recently seeing her on the cover of magazines such as Muscle & Fitness Hers, Maxim, FHM, or Playboy, and she already has many more covers lined up this year. Sports Illustrated named her Lovely Lady Of The Day. But she's not a regular model, she's gifted, a commercial pilot, a member of MENSA, received her undergraduate degree in Berkeley, and has an MBA!

What else can anyone ask for in a woman? She also has the sort of curves fantasies are made of (32D-25-35) and she loves taking her semi-automatic out for some marksmanship.

This beauty of Italian and Hungarian ancestry has traveled to 45 countries because travel is her only addiction.

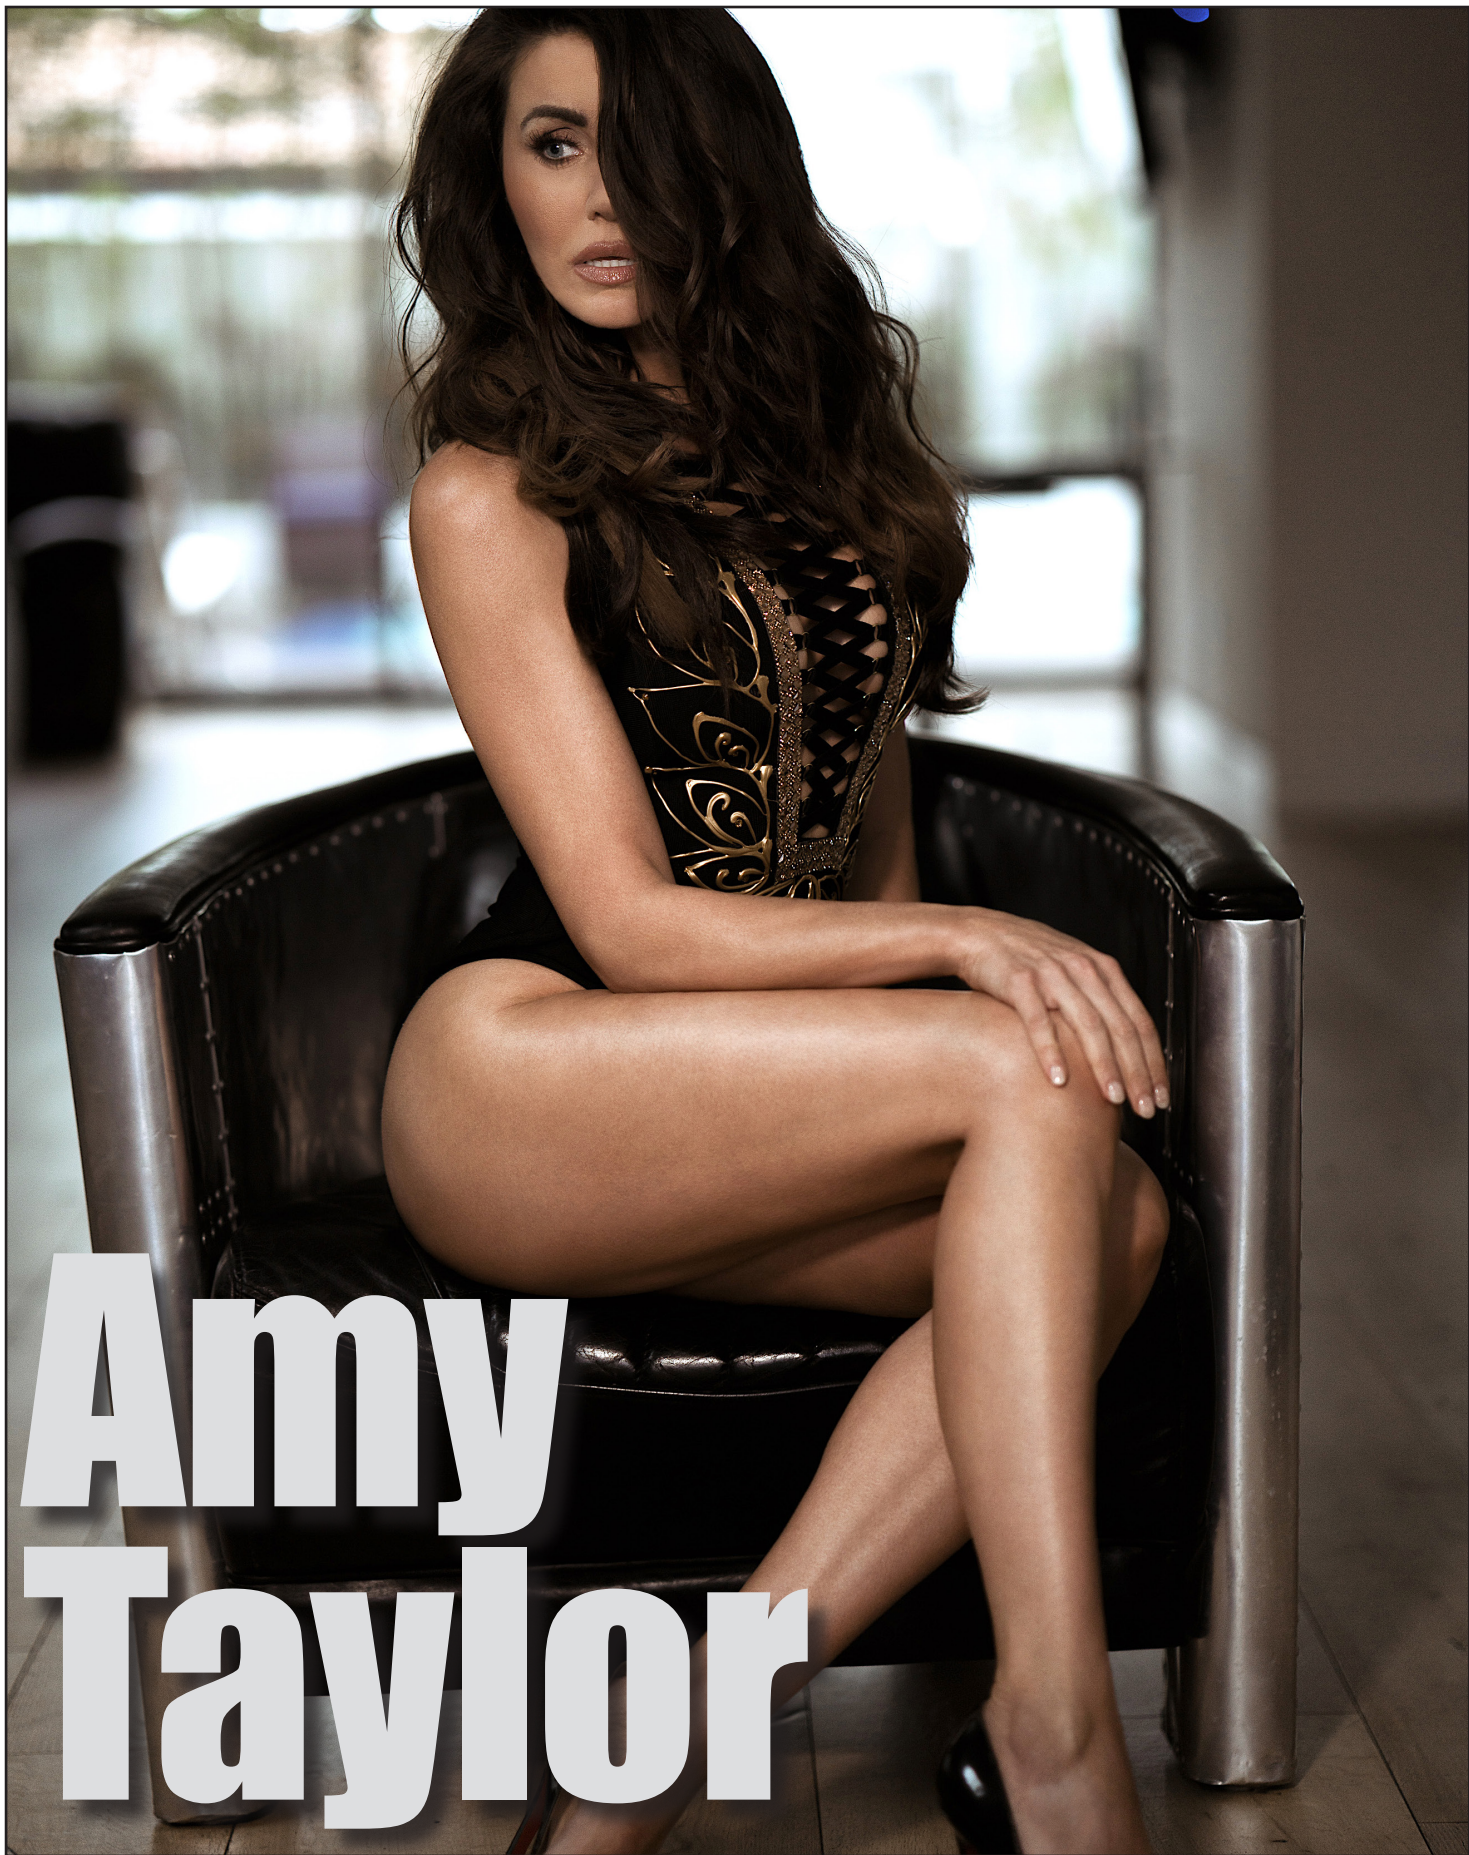

Do you want to know what she finds sexiest in a man? Intelligence. And the biggest turn offs are ignorance and selfishness.

She takes care of her beauty by trying not to fall asleep with makeup on, trying to eat somewhat healthfully, and using top-shelf skin and hair products but most of her looks are just genetic luck. She doesn't focus too much on these looks in daily life. She has always known that they'd fade someday, and that the inside of a person is sexier than any hot shell could ever be.

Now, I'm sure you are wondering where you can find this perfect woman... You can find her enjoying the sunny skies flying, keeping fit at her gym in Los Angeles, or at the beach playing with her dog.

Residency: Dallas, TX
Career: Technical designer in the apparel industry

Background: she's always loved fashion and modeling. She started modeling as a child around the age of 7 through an agency. She had a rough childhood was bullied a lot in school that didn't stop her though. She's now bloomed into the beautiful young model she is today. Her mom passed away from cancer when she was 18 after that she soon opened her own apparel company where proceeds go to help st Jude's and local animal shelters

Achievements: She started modeling when she was 7 through agency. She always wanted to be the first alternative Victoria's Secret model but she's a few inches too short! She was recently published in a magazine and has no plans on stopping there.

Los Angeles, CA born and raised! I attended alairel adprings online school to pursue dance and then USC Dchool of Cinematic Arts for acting and film. I have an older brother who is attending Cal Tech to earn a PHD in chemistry. My parents are still together and in LA as well.

Achievements: I am an actress and model and have been pursuing these interests full time for about a year now since graduating USC. I have acted in film, TV, music videos, and lately have been doing lots of modeling shoots for brands and am getting published at the end of the year in my first magazine. I love to play tennis, guitar, dance, and am a huge Disneyland fan. I go monthly! Excited to continue my career in this industry and seeing where else it takes me! Would love to travel in the near future for work as well!

I live in Knoxville Tennessee. My dad is full Lebanese (middle eastern) and my mom is African American from Michigan. I have my associates degree, and I'm currently working on my BA in psychology. My goal is to earn my Masters in psychology and become a relationship counselor. I love to volunteer and help people and have recently volunteered at a nursing home and with KKB (keep Knoxville beautiful) and picked up trash around Cumberland ave. I enjoy singing and took voice lessons for 2 years. I was also in an a capella group as well as choir throughout high school. I also enjoy doing yoga and can often be found jogging during the early hours of the day or at the gym. I'm currently single and I'm focusing on truly being the best version of myself. Some challenges that I face is spreading myself out too thin to the point where I'll make so many plans in a day I rarely get enough rest. I am fluent in English and Arabic, although I cannot read much of Arabic because I haven't been to Lebanon in about 11 years. I know a little bit of Spanish and received a Spanish 2 award in high school. My goal is to learn French and hopefully live in another country again and be exposed to different cultures before I settle down. I've recently been brainstorming ideas for a book I plan to write and hopefully get published! I love being in front of a camera and just having a little fun every now and then. I just enjoy the little things and life and try to take advantage of every living moment!

Hello! My name is Stephanie Stone and I live in Rancho Cucamonga California. My passion is fashion design but I use modeling as a unique way to express my ideas and have fun. In addition to modeling and fashion design, I enjoy marketing, graphic design and photography. I am very fun and vibrant and enjoy spending time with my friends and family. Additionally, I have a 17 year old son who shares a lot of the same hobbies and talents with me and we enjoy spending time going to museums, parks and botanical gardens.
