Jeremiah Moga is a vibrant, loving, and amazing young man that had a rough start when entering the school system. At the age of 5 the school and his mother noticed a learning disability. He lacked self confidence and withdrew. He didn't play with other children, he found things to occupy himself and therefore played alone. Children can be cruel, and they were bullying Jeremiah at school. His mother Rhonda Moga started to see things in him that she struggled with as a child. Rhonda was determined not to be an absent parent or to leave those memories of her as a mother with Jeremiah. She became the advocate and protector for her son. This led her to start Young Kingsman. She would use the brand to help Jeremiah build up his confidence, not only in himself, but in God who loves and cares for His creation! Jeremiah was also put into modeling classes. There he could let go and have fun knowing he was doing something great, despite his learning disability. This is where he found that he can be great at anything he put his effort into. The confidence it has given him pours over into the lives of other children! He wants his peers to know that even when the world brings trials and you may fall back, God is there to catch you. People may develop their own perception about you, but God sees you in a completely different way. He loves and cares for you despite any challenges you have to overcome! Jeremiah says that even if you have a disability, it doesn't keep you from striving for your goals and dreams and it can never determine your outcome or who you become! Jeremiah has travel to LA and New Fashion week with Styles & Designs by Miranda. And he also takes weekly classes at NG Dance studio. Jeremiah wants to be an inspiration to young people all around.

Shavon Gardner

There are so many ways to express oneself through fashion. I love diversity in everything I do and I want to be sure to show myself through anything that I display. In all the different areas of modeling, fashion is one that I enjoy most. It's beauty in both the clothing that I choose, as well as how I wear it. It's self-expression at its best.

Živilė Petrauskaitė

Hello lovely readers,

My name is Živilė and I am a singer and a model from Lithuania, currently living in United Kingdom. In this article I want to share with you my story of how I got into music and modelling industry and what challenges I faced.

I had a passion for music since very early age and my musical journey started in music school where I had choral singing lessons. Soon enough my talent was noticed by one of my music teachers who invited me to join her ensemble and a pop group. Since then I took part in various singing competitions and events in Lithuania and Germany. I truly enjoyed the experience and had the best time of my life.

I always felt that music was something I wanted to do professionally so I decided to take it further and gain education abroad. In 2010 I moved to United Kingdom and enrolled to Popular Music course. I spent 3 years studying live performance and successfully graduated in 2015. During the ceremony I also had a huge honour to meet Sir Patrick Stewart, an actor and a Chancellor of University of Huddersfield. It was an amazing and unforgettable experience.

Shortly after the graduation I went to Cyprus to work there as a singer. This experience has helped me to gain more self confidence performing in front of international audience. I also learnt to be more self disciplined as you can imagine I had to prepare new program every week in such a short time scale.

The most fun part was learning the songs in foreign languages as we had lots of holiday makers from all around the world. Although, being a singer requires lots of practicing and hard work, it is nothing more exciting when seeing happy faces in a public having a great time.

My other passion apart music is modelling. I have been modelling for 3 years now. I wanted to try it long time ago, however I was constantly judging my body and comparing myself to other models thinking that I was not good enough. The older I got the more I realised that I should just follow my heart and do what makes me happy, so I decided to try my luck. I started intensively applying for castings and one day I received a phone call from a modelling agency who invited me to their studio for a test shoot. When I got there everything seemed so professional and exciting. I had my hair and make up done to a high standard and worked with a few different photographers. At the end of the shoot I met a lady who was in charge of this "agency" and she talked me into signing a contract and buying a portfolio which cost me lots of money. She complimented me saying that I had lots of potential in modelling industry, however once I received the pictures I have never heard anything back from her.

Even though, I was scammed it did not stop me from achieving my goals. I actively started looking for opportunities and photographers to work with to build my portfolio and gain some experience. Soon enough I started receiving bookings for shoots and invitations to fashion shows. I had a pleasure to be part of some amazing shows including: York Fashion week 2019, African fashion week in Hull 2019, Eco-friendly fashion show 2019, Wedding fashion shows in York and Leeds 2019 and London fashion show 2021. I worked with so many creatives involving other models, designers and stylists. One of the most fun experiences was walking a flash mob organised by a designer Pierre Garroudi. His designs have been worn by some of the world's famous style icons from Naomi Campbell to Scarlet Johansson. I truly admire his work and skills, he makes really unique and extravagant garments.

Throughout my modelling career I have been photographed in various styles including fashion, commercial, editorial and glamour. I have also been published a numerous of times in fashion magazines and collaborated with brands by promoting their products.

Modelling and singing give me so much pleasure, they go hand in hand together as I am able to share the stage both as a model, as well as a singer.

Now I am up for more challenges and one of them is to try myself in acting. I am also happy to announce that soon I will be publishing my showreel, so watch the space.

I am truly grateful for Glitz magazine for giving me the opportunity to share my story here.

If I could give one piece of advice to all the people out there, it would be to dream big and believe in yourselves as everything is possible if you truly want something! Stay blessed.

Zoey Puhl

My name is Zoey and I would like to share with you some important things about myself. I have very big dreams and know I need to work hard and be disciplined to achieve them. I began taking karate at age four because my father told me it would help me with confidence and discipline. I work hard and in just three years I've earned a green belt. I also participate in gymnastics and dance.

I have big dreams, and that includes becoming an astronaut and working for NASA. I want to be the first person to reach Mars. I know if I work hard and do well in school I can achieve my goals and dreams one day.
