I grew up obese.

Through trials & hardships in childhood, food was my only comfort and it made me gain over 240 pounds. I was lost, confused, depressed, & anxious all the time. I didn't love myself or think that I could ever be more than what I was. I ended up getting a wake up call and I started to change for myself . I started to realize in order to change my life, I had to start with changing myself. It took me over 3 1/2 years to lose all the weight naturally. With diet and exercise . I ended up falling in love with myself and realizing I could do exactly everything I wanted to do as a kid, that I thought I couldn't do. My younger self would be so proud of me today. Confident , in love with herself and Fulfilling her modeling dreams.

I've always loved dancing, being able to improve and to work for what I want to become. I've always wanted to perform around the world so I'm always looking into traveling contemporary companies. I'm currently working on a dance degree, and already have an acrobatic arts teaching certification and I love getting to teach my students what I know. I have also had been able to work with so many people including Ashley pabst, Gregory Robinson, Teressa McWilliams, and Gina Walther who have all helped with my growth as a dance and performer. I have definitely had some difficulties in the past, my worst was when I fractured part of my lower spine. I had to be extremely careful with what I did/moved and I still wanted to still learn and keep dancing. It has been a lesson on when to push through pain and when to sit down and do what you can to stay healthy.
